

Historic Elk Landing

Head of Elk ~ Elkton MD

www.elklanding.org

Forget about the heat and humidity and come down to Historic Elk

Landing this Saturday, August 7th between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. Enjoy the shade of some of our broad trees, a slight breeze off the Little Elk Creek, and the air conditioned Hollingsworth House. If the outdoors are more to your liking, stroll our 44 acres of historic park land. Bring a picnic, a Frisbee, football, beach blanket, and/or some good summer time reading material and relax. You can combine your day of leisure with a short dose of local history by touring our 2, two-hundred plus year old mansions and find out what role they and their inhabitants played in our county and nation's history. Did I mention the Hollingsworth House is air conditioned?!!

Also on hand this Saturday will be our "old" friend, Wade Whitlock of the Steppingstone Museum who will present his interactive wood working program for young and old alike.

Historic Elk Landing is located just south of Route 40 at the foot of Landing Lane. Admission is free and the Hollingsworth House is handicapped accessible. Check us out on Facebook and soon our reconstructed web site.